

harvest by manjula padmanabhan

harvest by manjula padmanabhan is a groundbreaking play that explores themes of exploitation, identity, and globalization through a dystopian lens. This critically acclaimed work, written by the Indian playwright Manjula Padmanabhan, delves into the ethical dilemmas surrounding organ trade and commodification of human bodies in a near-future society. The narrative centers on the character Om Prakash, whose body is effectively leased to wealthy clients from developed countries for organ harvesting, highlighting stark social inequalities and the consequences of unchecked capitalism. This article offers an in-depth analysis of the play's themes, characters, and socio-political context, while also examining its literary techniques and cultural impact. Readers will gain a comprehensive understanding of why harvest by manjula padmanabhan remains relevant in contemporary discussions about bioethics and human rights.

- Overview of the Play
- Thematic Exploration
- Character Analysis
- Socio-Political Context
- Literary Techniques and Style
- Impact and Reception

Overview of the Play

Plot Summary

Harvest by Manjula Padmanabhan presents a dystopian future where a growing global disparity has led to the commodification of human bodies. The protagonist, Om Prakash, is a young Indian man who becomes a “donor” for international clients seeking healthy organs. The play unfolds through Om’s interactions with his “client,” highlighting the invasive nature of this arrangement and the emotional toll it takes on him and his family. The plot addresses the dehumanizing effects of this system, the loss of autonomy, and the moral ambiguity involved in survival under extreme economic hardship.

Setting and Structure

The play is set in a futuristic India, marked by poverty and technological advancement that paradoxically enables exploitation. The confined setting of Om’s home serves as a microcosm of the larger societal issues. The structure employs a combination of dialogue and monologues, incorporating elements of science fiction and realism to create a compelling and unsettling atmosphere. This setting and structure emphasize the claustrophobic reality faced by the characters and invite the audience to critically engage with the ethical questions posed.

Thematic Exploration

Exploitation and Commodification

A central theme of Harvest by Manjula Padmanabhan is the exploitation of vulnerable populations for the benefit of wealthy elites. The play critiques how economic disparities lead to the commodification of human bodies, turning them into products to be bought and sold. This theme reflects real-world concerns about organ trafficking and unethical medical practices, making the narrative both timely and poignant.

Identity and Alienation

The play also explores the erosion of personal identity when individuals become mere vessels for others' needs. Om's sense of self is fragmented as his body is used without consent, leading to profound alienation. This loss of agency raises questions about what it means to be human in a society that prioritizes profit over dignity.

Globalization and Inequality

Harvest addresses the consequences of globalization, particularly how technological advances can exacerbate social inequalities. The clients in the play represent affluent Western countries that exploit the bodies of impoverished individuals in developing nations. This dynamic critiques the uneven distribution of resources and the ethical responsibilities of global interconnectedness.

Character Analysis

Om Prakash

Om is the central character whose experiences drive the narrative. He embodies the struggles of the marginalized in a capitalist world. His complex emotions, ranging from hope to despair, reveal the human cost of systemic exploitation. Om's interactions with his family and the client highlight the tension between survival and morality.

The Client

The client remains a largely faceless presence, symbolizing the detached and impersonal nature of global capitalism. This character's demands and expectations underscore the power imbalance inherent in the organ trade system. The anonymity of the client serves to emphasize the dehumanization experienced by Om and others like him.

Supporting Characters

Om's family members provide context and contrast to his predicament. Their varying responses to the situation, from resignation to resistance, deepen the emotional resonance of the play. These characters also illustrate the broader social impact of exploitation on relationships and community.

Socio-Political Context

Organ Trade and Bioethics

Harvest by Manjula Padmanabhan draws attention to the controversial issue of organ trade, which raises significant bioethical concerns globally. The play interrogates the morality of commodifying human bodies and questions the legitimacy of consent when economic desperation is involved. It serves as a critique of systems that prioritize profit over human rights.

Postcolonial Perspectives

The play can be read through a postcolonial lens, as it highlights the lingering effects of colonialism on economic disparities and power relations. The exploitation of Indian bodies by Western clients mirrors historical patterns of domination and resource extraction. This perspective enriches the understanding of the play's critique of neo-colonialism.

Technological Advancement and Control

The futuristic setting reflects anxieties about technology's role in society. While medical technology offers life-saving possibilities, in harvest by manjula padmanabhan, it becomes a tool for control and oppression. This tension invites reflection on the ethical use of technology in healthcare and its potential to reinforce social hierarchies.

Literary Techniques and Style

Science Fiction Elements

Padmanabhan employs science fiction conventions to create a speculative world that amplifies contemporary issues. The use of futuristic technology and dystopian settings challenges the audience to consider the trajectory of current societal trends. These elements enhance the play's critical impact and broaden its thematic scope.

Symbolism and Metaphor

The play is rich with symbolism, such as the body as a commodity representing broader systemic exploitation. Metaphors related to harvesting and cultivation evoke natural processes juxtaposed against mechanical and commercial practices, emphasizing the unnaturalness of organ trade. These literary devices deepen the audience's engagement with the ethical dilemmas presented.

Dialogue and Dramatic Tension

The sharp, often terse dialogue heightens the dramatic tension and reveals character motivations. The interplay between Om and the client is marked by power struggles and subtle negotiation, reflecting the complex dynamics of exploitation. This style ensures that the audience remains engaged while contemplating the underlying themes.

Impact and Reception

Critical Acclaim

Since its debut, Harvest by Manjula Padmanabhan has received widespread critical acclaim for its innovative storytelling and powerful social commentary. Critics have praised the play's ability to address urgent ethical issues through a compelling narrative and complex characters. It is considered a significant work in contemporary Indian theater and global dramatic literature.

Academic and Cultural Influence

The play has become a subject of extensive academic study, particularly in the fields of postcolonial studies, bioethics, and theater arts. Its exploration of globalization and human rights resonates with scholars and students worldwide. Additionally, it has influenced other artists and playwrights interested in social justice themes.

Legacy and Continued Relevance

Harvest remains relevant in ongoing debates about organ trafficking, medical ethics, and economic inequality. Its prescient vision of a commodified future serves as a cautionary tale, encouraging vigilance against dehumanizing practices. The play's enduring legacy lies in its capacity to provoke critical reflection and inspire dialogue.

- Exploration of human exploitation through science fiction

- Insightful critique of globalization and economic disparity
- Complex character portrayals highlighting moral ambiguity
- Rich use of symbolism and dramatic tension
- Significant impact on theater and academic discourse

Frequently Asked Questions

What is the main theme of 'Harvest' by Manjula Padmanabhan?

'Harvest' explores themes of organ trade, exploitation, and the ethical dilemmas surrounding biotechnology in a dystopian future.

Who are the central characters in 'Harvest'?

The central characters include Om Prakash, a donor whose organs are harvested, and the wealthy buyers who benefit from the organ trade.

How does 'Harvest' reflect social issues in contemporary society?

'Harvest' reflects issues like poverty, globalization, and the commodification of the human body, highlighting the disparity between rich and poor.

What genre does 'Harvest' by Manjula Padmanabhan belong to?

'Harvest' is a dystopian science fiction play.

What is the significance of technology in 'Harvest'?

Technology in 'Harvest' is portrayed as a double-edged sword, enabling medical breakthroughs but also facilitating unethical organ trade and exploitation.

How does Manjula Padmanabhan use satire in 'Harvest'?

Padmanabhan uses satire to critique consumerism, globalization, and moral decay in society through exaggerated depictions of organ trafficking.

What is the setting of 'Harvest'?

The play is set in a dystopian future India, where organ trade is legalized and prevalent.

How does 'Harvest' address the concept of identity and humanity?

'Harvest' questions what it means to be human when bodies are treated as commodities, challenging notions of identity and personal autonomy.

What role does family play in 'Harvest'?

Family dynamics are crucial, showing the desperation and moral conflicts faced by individuals when economic survival clashes with ethical values.

Why is 'Harvest' considered an important work in Indian English literature?

'Harvest' is significant for its bold exploration of futuristic themes and social criticism, marking a shift towards contemporary issues in Indian English drama.

Additional Resources

1. Harvest

Manjula Padmanabhan's acclaimed play "Harvest" delves into the dystopian world of organ trade. It explores the complex dynamics between the wealthy buyers and impoverished sellers, addressing themes of exploitation, identity, and humanity. The narrative poignantly reflects on ethical dilemmas posed by biotechnology and globalization.

2. Collected Plays of Manjula Padmanabhan

This compilation features "Harvest" alongside other significant plays by Padmanabhan, showcasing her sharp critique of social issues. The collection highlights her distinctive narrative style and commitment to exploring themes such as gender, technology, and cultural conflict. Readers gain a comprehensive view of her dramatic artistry and social commentary.

3. Harvest: The Play and Its Contexts

This critical study examines "Harvest" within the broader socio-political and cultural frameworks of contemporary India. It analyzes the play's themes, character development, and its reflection on global bioethics. The book offers insights into the intersection of literature and real-world ethical debates.

4. Dystopian Visions in Indian Literature: Focus on Harvest

This scholarly work explores dystopian elements in Indian literature, with "Harvest" as a central case study. It discusses how Padmanabhan's play critiques technological advancement and societal inequalities. The book situates "Harvest" among other global dystopian narratives, emphasizing its unique cultural perspective.

5. Manjula Padmanabhan: Voices from the Margins

Focusing on the marginalized voices in Padmanabhan's writings, this book highlights "Harvest" as a powerful narrative of dispossession and resilience. It explores the playwright's engagement with issues of class, gender, and power. The analysis underscores her contribution to Indian feminist and postcolonial literature.

6. Ethics and Exploitation in Harvest

This text delves deeply into the ethical questions raised by "Harvest," particularly concerning organ trade and bodily autonomy. It provides a philosophical and moral examination of the characters' choices and societal pressures. The book is essential for readers interested in bioethics and contemporary drama.

7. Globalization and Identity in Harvest

Exploring themes of globalization, this book discusses how "Harvest" reflects the interconnectedness and disparities of modern societies. It addresses the impact of global economic forces on individual identity and agency. The work situates Padmanabhan's play within the global literary landscape.

8. Theatre and Technology: Innovations in Harvest

This study explores the innovative use of technology in the staging and narrative of "Harvest." It examines how technological elements enhance the play's dystopian atmosphere and thematic concerns. The book is valuable for those interested in theatrical production and technology's role in storytelling.

9. Resistance and Survival: Female Perspectives in Harvest

This book focuses on the female characters in "Harvest" and their strategies of resistance and survival in oppressive circumstances. It analyzes gender dynamics and the portrayal of women's strength and vulnerability. The study contributes to feminist readings of Indian drama and contemporary issues.

Harvest By Manjula Padmanabhan

Harvest by Manjula Padmanabhan: A Deep Dive into Post-Apocalyptic Feminism and Ecological Collapse

This ebook provides a comprehensive analysis of Manjula Padmanabhan's groundbreaking play, Harvest, exploring its potent blend of post-apocalyptic feminism, environmental critique, and unsettlingly prescient commentary on societal structures. We will delve into the play's thematic complexities, its theatrical techniques, and its enduring relevance in a world grappling with climate change and persistent gender inequality. The analysis will incorporate recent critical scholarship and consider the play's enduring impact on feminist and postcolonial theatre.

Ebook Title: Unpacking Harvest: A Critical Exploration of Manjula Padmanabhan's Post-Apocalyptic Masterpiece

Ebook Outline:

Introduction: An overview of Manjula Padmanabhan's work and the context of Harvest.

Chapter 1: The Post-Apocalyptic Landscape: Examining the setting and its symbolic significance.

Chapter 2: Gender and Power Dynamics: Analyzing the patriarchal structures and their subversion within the play.

Chapter 3: Ecological Critique and Environmental Collapse: Exploring the play's commentary on humanity's relationship with nature.

Chapter 4: The Role of Technology and Science: Examining the ambivalent portrayal of technological advancements.

Chapter 5: Thematic Resonance and Contemporary Relevance: Discussing the play's enduring power in a changing world.

Chapter 6: Staging and Performance: Analyzing the theatrical aspects and their contribution to the play's impact.

Chapter 7: Critical Reception and Interpretations: Surveying existing scholarly work on Harvest.

Conclusion: Synthesizing key arguments and highlighting the lasting legacy of Harvest.

Detailed Outline Explanation:

Introduction: This section sets the stage by introducing Manjula Padmanabhan's career and the historical and social context surrounding the writing and initial performance of Harvest. It will provide a brief synopsis of the play and highlight its key themes.

Chapter 1: The Post-Apocalyptic Landscape: This chapter analyzes the desolate, resource-scarce world depicted in Harvest, exploring its symbolic representation of ecological devastation and societal collapse. It will examine the imagery and language used to depict this setting, considering its impact on the characters and their actions.

Chapter 2: Gender and Power Dynamics: This chapter will dissect the deeply ingrained patriarchal structures within the play's dystopian society. It will examine how these structures manifest themselves in the characters' relationships, their roles, and their power dynamics. Specific attention will be paid to the subversion or reinforcement of these structures by the female characters.

Chapter 3: Ecological Critique and Environmental Collapse: This chapter will delve into Harvest's powerful critique of humanity's destructive relationship with the environment. It will examine the play's depiction of resource depletion, environmental degradation, and the consequences of unsustainable practices. It will explore the allegorical nature of the setting and its relevance to contemporary environmental concerns.

Chapter 4: The Role of Technology and Science: This chapter focuses on the ambivalent portrayal of technology and science in Harvest. While these advancements contribute to the dystopian reality, they also offer potential avenues for survival and resistance. The complex relationship between progress and destruction will be explored.

Chapter 5: Thematic Resonance and Contemporary Relevance: This chapter will explore the enduring power of Harvest's themes in the 21st century. It will connect the play's concerns with contemporary issues such as climate change, gender inequality, and the misuse of technology. The chapter will argue for the play's continuing relevance and its ability to provoke discussion and critical thinking.

Chapter 6: Staging and Performance: This chapter moves beyond the text to examine the theatrical aspects of Harvest. It will discuss staging choices, directorial interpretations, and the actors' contributions to the play's overall impact. This will include considerations of set design, costume, and lighting.

Chapter 7: Critical Reception and Interpretations: This chapter will survey existing scholarly articles and critical essays on Harvest. It will explore different interpretations of the play and highlight the ongoing debates surrounding its themes and meaning. This will provide a context for the analysis presented in the ebook.

Conclusion: This section summarizes the main arguments and findings of the ebook. It will reiterate the significance of Harvest as a powerful and insightful work of post-apocalyptic feminist theatre, highlighting its enduring relevance and contribution to dramatic literature.

Keywords: Manjula Padmanabhan, Harvest, Post-Apocalyptic Theatre, Feminist Theatre, Environmental Theatre, Ecofeminism, Dystopian Literature, Gender Studies, Postcolonial Literature, Indian Theatre, Climate Change, Patriarchy, Technological Determinism

FAQs:

1. What is the central theme of Harvest by Manjula Padmanabhan? The central theme explores the interconnectedness of ecological collapse, patriarchal power structures, and the struggle for survival in a post-apocalyptic world.
2. How does Harvest represent feminist ideals? The play critiques patriarchal structures and highlights the resilience and agency of women in a desperate situation, showcasing their capacity for survival and resistance.
3. What is the significance of the play's setting? The desolate, resource-scarce landscape symbolizes ecological devastation and the consequences of human actions on the environment.
4. What role does technology play in Harvest? Technology is presented ambivalently, both contributing to the dystopian reality and offering potential tools for survival and resistance.
5. How does Harvest relate to postcolonial themes? The play subtly touches upon postcolonial themes through its depiction of power imbalances and the exploitation of resources.
6. What are the major critical interpretations of Harvest? Critical interpretations vary, focusing on aspects like ecofeminism, postcolonial critique, and the play's exploration of societal collapse.

7. What makes Harvest a significant contribution to feminist theatre? Its unflinching portrayal of female agency and resistance in a harsh environment makes it a significant addition to feminist theatre.

8. How can Harvest be staged effectively? Effective staging needs to capture the desolate landscape and the emotional tension of the characters' plight.

9. What is the lasting impact of Harvest on theatre and literature? Harvest continues to inspire discussions on environmentalism, feminism, and the future of humanity, making it a lasting contribution to theatre and literature.

Related Articles:

1. Manjula Padmanabhan's contribution to Indian Theatre: Explores her overall impact on Indian playwriting and her unique style.
2. Ecofeminism in Post-Apocalyptic Literature: Examines the intersection of ecological and feminist themes in dystopian narratives.
3. The Representation of Women in Dystopian Fiction: Analyses the portrayal of female characters in dystopian settings, including Harvest.
4. Staging Post-Apocalyptic Theatre: Discusses the challenges and creative possibilities in staging plays set in post-apocalyptic worlds.
5. The Use of Symbolism in Manjula Padmanabhan's Plays: Focuses on symbolic imagery and its function in conveying deeper meanings in her work.
6. A Comparative Analysis of Harvest and other Post-Apocalyptic Plays: Compares Harvest with other notable post-apocalyptic plays to highlight its unique features.
7. Postcolonial perspectives on Environmental Degradation: Explores the relationship between colonialism, environmental destruction, and postcolonial narratives.
8. The Role of Technology in Shaping Dystopian Societies: Examines the various ways technology can be depicted in dystopian literature and film.
9. Feminist Interpretations of Environmental Crisis: Explores the intersection of feminism and environmentalism in understanding and addressing the environmental crisis.

harvest by manjula padmanabhan: Harvest Manjula Padmanabhan, 2018-01-31 A futuristic satire on the trade in live organs from the Third World to the West. Om, a young man is driven by unemployment to sell his body parts for cash. Guards arrive to make his home into a germ-free zone. When his brother Jeetu returns unexpectedly, he is taken away as the donor. Om can't accept this.

Java, his wife, is left alone. Will she too be seduced into selling her body for use by the rich westerners? Harvest won first prize in the first Onassis Cultural Competition for Theatre and was premiered in Greek at the Teatro Texnis, Athens. It has also been performed by a youth theatre in the UK, broadcast by the BBC World Service and made into a feature film, directed by Govind Nihalani, titled Body, which was screened at the Regus London Film Festival. The play is also studied by many colleges and universities to explain how globalisation works. Manjula Padmanabhan Born in Delhi to a diplomat family in 1953, she went to boarding school in her teenage years. After college, her determination to make her own way in life led to works in publishing and media-related fields. She won the Greek Onassis Award for her play Harvest. An award-winning film Deham was made by Govind Nihalani based on the play. She has written one more powerful play, Lights Out! (1984), Hidden Fires is a series of monologues. The Artist's Model (1995) and Sextet are her other works.(1996). She has also authored a collection of short stories, called Kleptomania. Her most recent book, published in 2008, is Escape. Apart from writing newspaper columns she created comic strips. She created Suki, an Indian comic character, which was serialized as a strip in the Sunday Observer. Before 1997 (the year her play Harvest was staged) she was better known as a cartoonist and had a daily cartoon strip in The Pioneer newspaper. As playwright 1984 - Lights Out 2003. Harvest. London: Aurora Metro Press. As Author and Illustrator 2013. Three Virgins and Other Stories New Delhi, India: Zubaan Books. 2015. Island of Lost Girls. Hachette. 2011. I am different! Can you find me? Watertown, Mass: Charlesbridge Pub. 2008. Escape. Hachette. 2005. Unprincess! New Delhi: Puffin Books. 1986. A Visit to the City Market New Delhi: National Book Trust 2003. Mouse Attack As Illustrator Baig, Tara Ali, and Manjula Padmanabhan. 1979. Indrani and the enchanted jungle. New Delhi: Thomson Press (India) Ltd. Maithily Jagannathan and Manjula Padmanabhan. 1984. Droopy dragon. New Delhi: Thomson Press. Comic Strips 2005. Double talk. New Delhi: Penguin Books.

harvest by manjula padmanabhan: Harvest Manjula Padmanabhan, 2017-09-15 'A modern morality play. A bitter, savagely funny vision of the cannibalistic future that awaits the human race...' - OUTLOOK A searing portrayal of a society bereft of moral and spiritual anchors, Manjula Padmanabhan's fifth play, Harvest, won the Onassis Award for Original Theatrical Drama in 1997, the first year in which the prize was awarded. Following its international premiere in Greece in 1999, the play has been performed over the years by theatre groups, both amateur and professional, around the world. A dark satire, Harvest tells the story of an impoverished family and the Faustian contract they enter into with a shadowy international corporation: fabulous wealth in exchange for the organs of one of its members. As Ginni, the glamorous American woman who hopes to receive the organs, invades their one-room home via an interactive video device the play lays bare the transactional nature of human relationships - even the most intimate ones. This edition includes, for the first time, a gender-reversed version of the play - an experiment by the author that provides startling insight into the stereotypes and societal constructs ingrained deep in the human psyche and, indeed, into how we perceive gender.

harvest by manjula padmanabhan: The Island Of Lost Girls Manjula Padmanabhan, 2015-07-20 This is the story of Meiji ? the only girl who has remained untouched and un mutilated in a country that has savaged its entire female population. Having saved her from certain death in the new Dark Age that has come upon the world, her gaurdian, Youngest, has transported her to the only place where she can remain safe ? an Island where wounded girls are, sometimes literally, stitched back together and given a new life. But the Island itself is a menacing place, and Meiji may be in more danger than ever before. To see what has become of his beloved girl, Youngest must find a way to infiltrate its odd environs while keeping the constantly assaulting voice in his head at bay. His struggles against the surreal inhabitants of a world gone wrong and with his own transformed identity only serve to steel his efforts to find the girl, and escape once more... The Island of Lost Girls showcases, yet again, Manjula Padmanabhan's genius at creating searing landscapes and alternate, sometimes brutal, worlds while reaffirming the beauty and the ugliness, the cruelty and the tremendous compassion that essentially make us human. ' harvest by manjula padmanabhan: Three Virgins and Other Stories Manjula Padmanabhan, 2013-07-22 Author-artist Manjula Padmanabhan returns with ten stories: five new, five old, some dark, some funny, all edgy. A vampire visits New Delhi, a space traveler returns to her ancestral home, a character from an ancient epic is transported into the future... To each story Padmanabhan brings an unexpected twist, a touch of satire, a whiff of cynicism, a delicious undercurrent of dark humour. Drawing on her earlier, highly acclaimed anthology, Hot Death Cold Soup, and adding new stories to it, Padmanabhan presents a potent and sometimes disturbing collection that will leave readers asking for more. Published by Zubaan.

harvest by manjula padmanabhan: Escape Manjula Padmanabhan, 2015-07-20 In the country she inhabits, Meiji is unique. The only surviving female in a land where women have been exterminated, she has been brought up in secret, cloistered and protected, by three men she knows as her uncles ? Eldest, Middle and Youngest. Now, as she approaches adolescence, her guardians must ensure that the dictatorial clone Generals who rule their world never get to know of her existence, and it falls to Youngest to escort Meiji on a long and treacherous journey through ravaged landscapes to the very edge of the world known to them. An adventure story like no other, a tale of love and self-discovery in several unexpected layers, Escape is a novel that is as unsettling as it is unputdownable. In its captivating portrayal of tender relationships blooming and thriving in a vicious, forbidding landscape, it bears out Manjula Padmanabhan's genius as a creator of compelling alternative worlds.

harvest by manjula padmanabhan: Getting there Manjula Padmanabhan, 2020-03-25 Late 1970s, Bombay. Manjula is in her twenties, struggling to earn a living as an author-illustrator. Then, a deceptively routine visit to a diet clinic and an encounter with two tall Dutch men turn her life inside out. Without much ado she speeds off on a Westward-bound spiritual quest, which involves cheating on her boyfriend, lying to everyone she loves and cutting off all ties with her safe, respectable, bourgeois Indian upbringing. In this picaresque travel memoir, novelist, cartoonist and award-winning playwright Manjula Padmanabhan looks back on her youthful misadventures in Europe. By turns funny and fierce, Getting There will touch anyone who has ever wanted to strip off their skin to waltz, however briefly, on the wild side.

harvest by manjula padmanabhan: Tara Mahesh Dattani, 1995

harvest by manjula padmanabhan: Kleptomania Manjula Padmanabhan, 2004 In this brilliantly versatile collection of stories from the award-winning author of Harvest, the reader will encounter a range of themes, from murder mystery to science fiction. The author's vision of a post-apocalypse future is dark, but rendered with a rich vein of irony and humour that allows us to roller-coast with her into a world where air and water and the earth itself take on new shades of meaning. Then there are the here-and-now stories of bodies turning up in backyards, of love betrayed and sexuality discovered, of bitter awakenings and upbeat endings. Intelligent, opinionated, and playful, this is a collection that defies limitations of time, space, and imagination to conjure up new morality tales for our time. Read more harvest by manjula padmanabhan: Blood and Laughter Manjula Padmanabhan, 2020-03-25 A neighbourhood that turns a blind eye to a recurring gruesome crime. A game show that puts the lives of its contestants on the line. An insidious tableau that pits three artists against each other. A world where organs of the poor are commercially harvested for the rich. Collected Plays brings together, in a much-anticipated series, the dramatic works of Onassis Prize-winning playwright and author Manjula Padmanabhan. Blood and Laughter, the first volume, presents within its covers Padmanabhan's full-length plays - including the three-times cinematized Lights Out, the previously unpublished Mating Game Show and Artist's Model, and the award-winning Harvest - all known for their masterful portrayal of the dilemmas of morality, relationships and the idea of justice. Horror, anticipation and chilling realism mark each of these works, drawing readers and audiences alike to the edge of their seats. With new introductions to the works that affirm the relevance of the themes of the plays, this collection showcases the playwright's mastery of her art and reconfirms her standing among the leading dramatists of our time.

harvest by manjula padmanabhan: Mouse Attack Manjula Padmanabhan, 2004 Arvee, a distinguished and intellectual mouse, hates having to leave his laboratory home and become a family pet. To his surprise, life in his exquisite new house, Paradise Villa, is delightful, but it is dull. Then Arvee meets Stringer and his family of brown mice, and learns an awful truth. Paradise Villa has been taken over by Pasha, the devilish Ratlord, and his hench-rats, who will stop at nothing to enslave every mouse in the house. Using all his genius and courage, Arvee sets out to liberate the mousy people once and for all harvest by manjula padmanabhan: Transplantation Gothic Sara Wasson, 2020-10-13

Transplantation Gothic is a shadow cultural history of transplantation, as mediated through medical writing, science fiction, life writing and visual arts in a Gothic mode, from the nineteenth-century to the present. The works explore the experience of donor/suppliers, recipients and practitioners, and simultaneously express transfer-related suffering and are complicit in its erasure. Examining texts from Europe, North America and India, the book resists exoticising predatorial tissue economies and considers fantasies of harvest as both product and symbol of structural ruination under neoliberal capitalism. In their efforts to articulate bioengineered hybridity, these works are not only anxious but speculative. The book will be of interest to academics and students researching Gothic studies, science fiction, critical medical humanities and cultural studies of transplantation.

harvest by manjula padmanabhan: Hot Death, Cold Soup Manjula Padmanabhan, 1996 harvest by manjula padmanabhan: Baghdad Wedding Hassan Abdulrazzak, 2007-06-28 'In Iraq, a wedding is not a wedding unless shots get fired. It's like in England where a wedding is not a wedding unless someone pukes or tries to fuck one of the bridesmaids. That's the way it goes.' From cosmopolitan London to the chaos of war-ravaged Baghdad, this is the comic tale of three friends, torn between two worlds, and a wedding that goes horribly wrong. Baghdad Wedding premiered at the Soho Theatre in June 2007 and was the winner of the George Devine, Meyer-Whitworth (2008) and Pearson (2009) awards.

harvest by manjula padmanabhan: Where's That Cat? Manjula Padmanabhan, 2022-03 A little girl looks for her cat on a busy street but the cat manages to stay one step ahead of her.

harvest by manjula padmanabhan: The Caucasian Chalk Circle Bertolt Brecht, 2015-03-16
This Student Edition of Brecht's classic dramatisation of the conflict over possession of a child features an extensive introduction and commentary that includes a plot summary, discussion of the context, themes, characters, style and language as well as questions for further study and notes on words and phrases in the text. It is the perfect edition for students of theatre and literature. Brecht projects an ancient Chinese story onto a realistic setting in Soviet Georgia. In a theme that echoes the Judgment of Solomon, two women argue over the possession of a child; thanks to the unruly judge, Azdak (one of Brecht's most vivid creations) natural justice is done and the peasant Grusha keeps the child she loves, even though she is not its mother. Written in exile in the United States during the Second World War, The Caucasian Chalk Circle is a politically-charged, much-revived and complex example of Brecht's epic theatre. This volume contains expert notes on the author's life and work, historical and political background to the play, photographs from stage productions and a glossary of difficult words and phrases. It features the acclaimed translation by James and Tania Stern with W. H. Auden.

harvest by manjula padmanabhan: The Circle of Karma Kunzang Choden, 2005 Caught in the everyday reality of household life, fifteen-year-old Tsomo is suddenly called upon to travel when her mother dies. She makes her first journey to a faraway village to light the ritual butter lamps in her mother's memory. Beginning here, her travels take her to distant places, across Bhutan and into India. As she faces the world, a woman alone, Tsomo embarks on what becomes a life journey, in which she begins to find herself, and to grow as a person and a woman. The first novel by a woman to come out of the Himalayan kingdom of Bhutan, The Circle of Karma, written in English, is rich in detailed descriptions of ritual life in Bhutan. The measured pace of its prose, the many nuances of the story, the different levels at which the narrative works, weave a complex tapestry of life in which the style and content are closely interwoven, each informing and enriching the other.

harvest by manjula padmanabhan: Ends of Empire Jodi Kim, 2004 Ends of Empire examines Asian American cultural production and its challenge to the dominant understanding of American imperialism, Cold War dynamics, and race and gender formation. Jodi Kim demonstrates the degree to which Asian American literature and film critique the record of U.S. imperial violence in Asia and provides a glimpse into the imperial and gendered racial logic of the Cold War. She unfolds this particularly entangled and enduring episode in the history of U.S. global hegemony—one that, contrary to leading interpretations of the Cold War as a simple bipolar rivalry, was significantly triangulated in Asia. The Asian American works analyzed here constitute a crucial body of what Kim reveals as transnational “Cold War compositions,” which are at once a geopolitical structuring, an ideological writing, and a cultural imagining. Arguing that these works reframe the U.S. Cold War as a project of gendered racial formation and imperialism as well as a production of knowledge, Ends of Empire offers an interdisciplinary investigation into the transnational dimensions of Asian America and its critical relationship to Cold War history.

harvest by manjula padmanabhan: Postcolonial Plays Helen Gilbert, 2013-09-13 This collection of contemporary postcolonial plays demonstrates the extraordinary vitality of a body of work that is currently influencing the shape of contemporary world theatre. This anthology encompasses both internationally admired 'classics' and previously unpublished texts, all dealing with imperialism and its aftermath. It includes work from Canada, the Caribbean, South and West Africa, Southeast Asia, India, New Zealand and Australia. A general introduction outlines major themes in postcolonial plays. Introductions to individual plays include information on authors as well as overviews of cultural contexts, major ideas and performance history. Dramaturgical techniques in the plays draw on Western theatre as well as local performance traditions and include agit-prop dialogue, musical routines, storytelling, ritual incantation, epic narration, dance, multimedia presentation and puppetry. The plays dramatize diverse issues, such as: *globalization * political corruption * race and class relations *slavery *gender and sexuality *media representation *nationalism harvest by manjula padmanabhan: Double Talk Manjula Padmanabhan, 2005 Double Talk Debuted In The Sunday Observer In Bombay, 1982. Suki, Its Central Character, Was A Bushy-Haired, Baggy-Clothed Free Spirit. With Neither Job Nor Family To Tie Her Down, Her Life Was Breezily Uncluttered, Unencumbered And Unconventional. In Four Years She Had Just One Romance And Her Best Friends Were Non-Human. Her Favourite Concerns Were Bewilderingly Abstract And Her Reference Points Were Usually Universal Rather Than Local. In The Nineties, Suki Was Resurrected In A Daily Strip Of That Name, In The Pioneer In New Delhi, Where It Ran For Six Years. Despite All The Changes That Have Occurred In The Real World Since The Birth Of Suki, The Character And The Illustrations Continue To Bristle With Their Own Quirky Brand Of Humour. Or Lack Of It: Bombay S Feisty Readers Had Strong Views About The Cartoon, And Sent In Almost 60 Published Letters Of Complaint To The Editor! This Book Represents A Selection Of The Strips That Appeared In Print From 1982 To 1986.

harvest by manjula padmanabhan: The Woman who Thought She was a Planet Vandana Singh, 2008 Already A Name In The World Of Science Fiction And Fantasy Writing, Vandana Singh Brings Her Unique Imagination To A Wider Audience With Her First Collection Of Stories. In The Title Story, A Woman Tells Her Husband Of Her Curious Discovery: That She Is Inhabited By Small Alien Creatures. In Another, A Young Girl, Making Her Way To College Through The Streets Of Delhi Comes Across A Mysterious Tetrahedron: Is It A Spaceship? Or A Secret Weapon? Each Story In This Fabulous Collection Opens Up New Vistas — From Outer Space To The Inner World—And Takes The Reader On An Incredible Journey To Both. The Book Also Includes The Author’S Own Critical Essay On The Future And Importance Of Speculative Fiction As A Genre.

harvest by manjula padmanabhan: Science Fiction, Imperialism and the Third World Ericka Hoagland, Reema Sarwal, 2014-01-10 Though science fiction is often thought of as a Western phenomenon, the genre has long had a foothold in countries as diverse as India and Mexico. These fourteen critical essays examine both the role of science fiction in the third world and the role of the third world in science fiction. Topics covered include science fiction in Bengal, the genre's portrayal of Native Americans, Mexican cyberpunk fiction, and the undercurrents of colonialism and Empire in traditional science fiction. The intersections of science fiction theory and postcolonial theory are explored, as well as science fiction's contesting of imperialism and how the third world uses the genre to recreate itself. Instructors considering this book for use in a course may request an examination copy here.

harvest by manjula padmanabhan: 2099 Manjula Padmanabhan, 2018-01-25 The year is 2099 and Mr M, erstwhile editor of a prestigious newsmagazine, has just come back to life after eighty-two years in the PSP—the Perma Sleep Programme. While revival experts work on him to make his transition into the new era as smooth as possible, Mr M can't wait to find out all there is to know about what the world is like in 2099. His journalistic curiosity can hardly contain itself. The world has indeed changed. It is a whole lot different than what Mr M remembers it from when he was last alive. After the two atomic bombs that had detonated in quick succession in 2015, Mr M had signed up for PSP, having faith in the power of the future. Can 2099 really live up to Mr M's commitment to knowledge or his faith in the future? 2099 is an excellent example of a prolific author like Manjula Padmanabhan using science fiction for social commentary. Her take on what the end of this century could very well look like attempts to answer those questions that we, as humanity, desperately need to address.

harvest by manjula padmanabhan: Brides are Not for Burning Dina Mehta, 1993 harvest by manjula padmanabhan: Goodnight Desdemona (Good Morning Juliet) (Play) Ann-Marie MacDonald, 2012-10-23 Goodnight Desdemona (Good Morning Juliet) is an exuberant comedy and feminist revisioning of Shakespeare's Othello and Romeo and Juliet. It takes us from a dusty office in Canada's Queen's University, into the fraught and furious worlds of two of Shakespeare's best-known tragedies, and turns them upside-down. Constance Ledbelly is the beleaguered "spinster" academic, and unlikely heroine who embarks on a quest for Shakespearean origins and, ultimately, her own identity. When she deciphers an ancient and neglected manuscript, Constance is propelled through a very modern rabbit hole and lands smack in the middle of the tragic turning points of each play in turn. Her attempts to save first Desdemona, then Juliet, from their harrowing fates, result in a wild unpredictable ride through comedy and near-tragedy, as mild-mannered Constance learns to love, sword-fight, dance Renaissance-style, and master a series of disguises... Goodnight Desdemona (Good Morning Juliet) a gender-bendy, big-hearted and crazily intelligent romp, where irony and anger sing in perfect harmony with innocence and poignancy.

harvest by manjula padmanabhan: Hidden Fires Manjula Padmanabhan, 2003 Five powerful, hard-hitting monologues in which the playwright tackles head-on issues of violence, intolerance of others, narrow concepts of community and nation, each with a twist that lifts it into the realm of real drama. Award-winning playwright Manjula Padmanabhan, in her attempt to come to grips with the violence of these times, excels in this suite of short one-handers which leaves the viewer both shaken and thoughtful. Manjula Padmanabhan is a playwright, writer, illustrator and cartoonist living in New Delhi. Her play Harvest was awarded the Onassis International Cultural Competition Prize for Theatrical Plays in 1997.

harvest by manjula padmanabhan: Laughter and Blood Manjula Padmanabhan, 2020-03-25 Conjoined triplets on a blind date. A lesson in human reproduction by a manic-prudish teacher. A heart-stopping game of cards. An instrument that tunes in to the music of our bodies' organs. Collected Plays brings together, in a much-anticipated series, the dramatic works of Onassis prize-winning playwright and author Manjula Padmanabhan. Laughter and Blood, the second volume, presents within its covers Padmanabhan's short performance pieces. From The Sextet and Ladies' Night to Hidden Fires and Blind Date, these wildly inventive, subversive and often chilling plays introduce readers to the intrigues of inverted power structures, tantalizingly suggestive interactions and powerful voices from the fringe. With new introductions to the works that affirm the relevance of the themes of the plays, this collection showcases the playwright's mastery of her art and reconfirms her standing among the leading dramatists of our time.

harvest by manjula padmanabhan: Body in the Backyard Manjula Padmanabhan, 2018-01-25 Since the discovery of a decaying corpse in their backyard, the members of the Bajaj family have experienced a host of emotions from shock to disgust to exasperation to fury. But when the young CID officer Vasant arrives at the crime scene, he can immediately tell that the Bajaj family may not be as innocent as they seem. However, seeing as Mr Bajaj is the additional secretary to revenue and has a meeting with the prime minister in a couple of hours, Vasant has no option but to speed up his investigation. But he is not worried. The still alive corpse has just started talking and Vasant is all ears. Subversive, exciting, and revealing, with a twist you actually won't be ready for, Manjula Padmanabhan's Body in the Backyard is as compelling as it is well-written.

harvest by manjula padmanabhan: Sharing Air Manjula Padmanabhan, 2018-01-25 Picture living in a world that has you constantly tethered to an oxygen tank, covered from head to toe in a body suit and buying dated air that you can sniff without your head gear on for cheap thrills. A world where the elders tell their children stories about the time their ancestors lived and breathed through an air cocktail—like savages! As if it wasn't already hard living in a world like this, imagine having to go through the pressure of attending sharing air parties that everyone seems to be going to these days. Apparently, membership at The ToxiClub society is at an all-time high. Whether or not you believe you can handle the ToxiClub, Sharing Air is a fascinating glimpse into a world that's scarily plausible. Science fiction offers a writer an opportunity to go directly to the heart of an ironical or thought-provoking situation and by setting up this theoretical world, Manjula Padmanabhan hits the nail right on the head with equal literary aplomb.

harvest by manjula padmanabhan: Red Oleanders Rabindranath Tagore, 1925 harvest by manjula padmanabhan: Notes of a Dream: The Authorized Biography of A.R. Rahman Krishna Trilok, 2021-12 The first-ever authorized biography of international music legend A.R. Rahman Who really is A.R. Rahman? We know the music. But do we know the man? For the first time, a nation's pride--winner of National Film awards, Oscars, Grammys and hearts--opens up about his philosophies: hope, perseverance, positivity and love. From his early days as a composer of advertisement jingles to his first big break in feature films, from his keenness to integrate new technology with good old-fashioned music scores to the founding of his music school, from his resounding entry on to the international stage to his directorial debut, from his philanthropy to his inner life, Notes of a Dream captures Rahman's extraordinary success story with all the rhythm and melody, the highs and lows, of a terrific soundtrack by the man himself. Featuring intimate interviews with the soft-spoken virtuoso, as well as insights and anecdotes from key people in his life, this balanced, uplifting and affectionate book is the definitive biography of A.R. Rahman--the man behind the music and the music that made the man.

harvest by manjula padmanabhan: Caricaturing Culture in India Ritu Gairola Khanduri, 2014-10-02 A highly original study of newspaper cartoons throughout India's history and culture, and their significance for the world today.

harvest by manjula padmanabhan: Same & Different Manjula Padmanabhan, 2010 harvest by manjula padmanabhan: Padmanabhan's "Harvest" and Utopia, Dystopia and Justice Marie Marx, 2016-09-20 Essay from the year 2015 in the subject English Language and Literature Studies - Literature, grade: 2,0, University of Potsdam (Institut für Anglistik und Amerikanistik), course: Utopia, Dystopia, Justice, language: English, abstract: This essay has two aims: to explain both utopian conceptions made by Jameson and to discuss in how far these aspects of utopia appear in the futuristic play "Harvest" by Manjula Padmanabhan. Supported by fictional political and social arrangements, Padmanabhan criticizes 'roots of all evil' like unemployment and up-to-date global trade relations between the Third World and the West in her play "Harvest". Fredric Jameson distinguishes in the essay "The Politics of Utopia" between two utopian perspectives: the 'root of all evil' and 'the political and social arrangements'. Jameson, born 1934, is considered to be one of the foremost contemporary Marxist literary and cultural critics writing in English. In his article he says that 'utopian' has come to be a code word on the left for socialism or communism and on the right for 'totalitarianism'. Both politics wish to change the system.

harvest by manjula padmanabhan: Unprincess!, 2005 Three Heroines Braver, Bolder And More Resolute Than Your Usual Swooning Princesses Of Traditional Fairytales Meet Urmila, Who Is So Ugly That She Makes People Swoon, Kavita, Who Can Take On Giants More Competently Than Any Prince, And Sayoni, Who Has The Power To Tame Even The Wildest Nightmare. These Three Whimsical, Feisty Stories From Master Storyteller Manjula Padmanabhan, Illustrated In Her Characteristically Bold And Quirky Style, Will Delight Readers Of All Ages.

harvest by manjula padmanabhan: Nampally Road Meena Alexander, 1992 This Is The Story Of Mira Kannadical Who Lives Simultaneously In A Private World Of Lyrical Intensity And A Public World Of Violence And Torture.

harvest by manjula padmanabhan: The Girl Who Could Make People Naked Manjula Padmanabhan, 2018-01-25 When she looked into his eyes, she could see every thought of his, strung out like washed shirts flapping on a line. Gautam is already a little high-strung because of his sister's wedding when he meets Bahaar, the groom's cousin, who claims to have arranged this meeting of theirs. Gautam, who is struggling with his possessive feelings for his sister and his doubts over the suitor, who in his opinion isn't all that suitable, gets increasingly peeved with every sentence that Bahaar utters. Not only does she seem to possess supernatural powers, the likes of which he has never experienced before, but she also seems to be weirdly obsessed with him. After all, it isn't everyday that a weird girl with superpowers asks you to have sex with her while their families are socializing with each other. Needless to say, Gautam is speechless. But Bahaar still has one more trick up her sleeve. Can Gautam handle it? Originally written to appear in a magazine, The Girl Who Could Make People Naked is in the author's view, a cheeky look at Delhi's strait-laced, uptight social milieu that sometimes takes itself a little too seriously. Weird, wonderful, and almost absurd, this is Manjula Padmanabhan at her finest.

harvest by manjula padmanabhan: An Upbeat Story Manjula Padmanabhan, 2018-01-25 Manjula Padmanathan often gets asked to write short pieces for different publications around the country. This means, working with different kinds of people for different kinds of readers, an altogether enriching experience. However, when the brief is to write something upbeat in an almost impossible period of time for a publication that doesn't quite lend itself to Padmanabhan's typically macabre themes, her tongue-in-cheek humour takes the form of An Upbeat Story. A dark yet touching story about a man with Down Syndrome and a woman confined to a wheelchair, told within an imagined conversation between a 'writer' and an 'editor', and written in Padmanabhan's impeccable style. Funny, audacious, and tender, An Upbeat Story makes writing under duress seem effortless.

harvest by manjula padmanabhan: Gandhi-toxin Manjula Padmanabhan, 2018-01-25 Sitaram Desai, a researcher and the scion of third cousins from Mahatma Gandhi's bloodline, has just managed to invent a toxin from a vial of ashes belonging to the greatest man the Indian subcontinent has ever seen. The Gandhi-toxin, when diffused through the blood, has the ability to disarm aggression vectors in mammalian brains. Of course, if mass-administered, it can cause catastrophic pacifism and widespread loss of competitive urge—a formidable weapon indeed. Aidid and Isabella, Supreme Commanders at United Gene Heritage, are aware of the threats, which is why they launch a mass release of the toxin through specially engineered mosquitos that can even cross enemy lines. However, no one has ever managed to predict the long-term effects of genetic manipulation and it looks like the Supreme Commanders are in for a supreme surprise. Science fiction often manages to look closely at present-day issues through a fairly made-up world. In Gandhi-toxin, Manjula Padmanabhan cleverly uses her literary prowess to build a dystopian—although not entirely unbelievable—near future to make a point about the world we live in today. Funny and incisive, this short read is for anyone who's ever wondered about the future of our world.

harvest by manjula padmanabhan: Biotechnological and Medical Themes in Science Fiction Domna Pastourmatzi, 2002

harvest by manjula padmanabhan: On a Muggy night in Mumbai Mahesh Dattani, 2013-07-15

‘A playwright of world stature’—Mario Relich, Wasafiri On a Muggy Night in Mumbai is the first contemporary Indian play to openly tackle gay themes of love, partnership, trust and betrayal. Kamlesh—young, gay and clinically depressed—invites his friends home ostensibly for an evening of camaraderie. However, with the arrival of his sister and her fiancé, a series of dramatic confrontations is set into motion, leading to startling revelations and unexpected catharsis. ‘At last we have a playwright who gives sixty million English-speaking Indians an identity’—Alyque Padamsee ‘Powerful and disturbing’—The New York Times

Related Articles

- heartless pdf
- head and neck anatomy pdf
- holy spirit and his gifts by kenneth hagin pdf

Back to Home